

Purple Soup's 'Build It' challenge will see your employees working as a high-functioning, creative, collaborative unit as they use Lego to help build a strong team dynamic.

No longer just a children's toy, our qualified Lego team-building facilitator will use Lego to help your team enhance their critical thinking skills while giving them a chance to tap into some of the creativity and play that is often left behind in childhood.

Working both in teams, and as individuals, your employees will be put through a series of challenges that will help them develop and implement the skills required to build a strong workforce.

This activity makes a great inclusion into an offsite or conference.
